Volunteering is important. Volunteers take free time to help other people. You can volunteer, too. You can help people at your school or in your community. You can help protect animals. You can do projects to clean up the environment. You can do many things to show you care.

Volunteering can help you, too. Sometimes, you may feel sad or lonely. When you do something to help other people, you will feel better. You will feel good about yourself.

1. How could you help people in your community? List some of your choices, and tell why you would do them.

2. How could you help the environment in your community?
